

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a shallow trench isolation (STI) forming method for improving STI step 5 uniformity. The method deposits an oxidation layer to a semiconductor structure formed with STIs. After a planarization material layer is formed on the oxidation, then CMP process is performed. By using the method of the present invention, the STI step uniformity can be raised.